UNION HIGH SCHOOL

AURORA

1937

VOLUME TWENTY-SIX

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN

Dedication

To the four teachers who have been at Union High School during the past twenty-five years, Mr. Keith Kennedy, Miss May Conlon, Miss Edith Vandenberg, and Mr. Henry Hornbeck, and to Union's first graduating class, that of 1912, we dedicate this Aurora.

Under the direction of Miss Christine Keck, long a teacher at Union, the class of 1912 published our first yearbook and so established the tradition of an annual. It was also this class, with the aid of the other students who were then attending Union, which gave to the school the statue of Abraham Lincoln that stands in our front hall.

Although in 1912 the teachers to whom this Aurora is dedicated were rather new to our school, they were already among Union's most loved faculty members. Today, after at least twenty-five years of service, they hold an even higher place in the esteem of the students, for they are admired not only for their high intellectual standards, the excellence of their instruction, and the inspiration of their personalities but also for their years of service dedicated to guiding students to "the good life" by means of the light of their own examples.

Foreword

This Aurora of 1937 marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the publication of a yearbook at Union High School. In place of the literary compositions and formal group pictures of 1912 and succeeding years, we follow the trend of the times by presenting in action shots the Union faculty and students in their daily quest of "the good life."

When one has health, wealth, and happiness in the right proportions, we believe he experiences "the good life." Therefore, we first show you how teachers and students here at Union seek health not only through sports and exercise but also through studies relating to the nourishment and care of the body.

Wealth, too, is ours; for our school gives freely of the books, instruction, and practice that offer to each of us the infinite wealth of a trained mind, a skilled hand, and a character and personality developed through participation in school activities.

Some students may find happiness in the satisfaction of achievement, others in the joy of service, and still others in social activities, but all of us find it abundantly in the good fellowship that each day brings.

New features of our '37 yearbook are the use of photography on the divisional pages, news-commentator style in our senior chronicle, cartoons to brighten pages of copy, a page honoring faculty activities, and a senior directory.

We sincerely believe that what we have learned as students will aid us in the future to seek "the good life" and to find it.

Seekers of the Good Life

Seekers

■ Flash! Ancient tradition debunked! Teachers no longer stilted pedagogues, with their chief business struggling to maintain a scholarly atmosphere and to impress their dull or mischievous underlings with a super-severe dignity and the imminence of the old hickory switch. Faculty and students have turned co-workers striving for the ideal of "the good life."

What more opportune place might be provided for our co-searchings than a high school such as ours where students and faculty work side by side, developing projects like our school newspaper and our student government.

With the superior knowledge and deeper understanding which life experience has brought them, our teachers while they are striving to present to us a concept of what they believe to be "the good life" endeavor to approach for themselves the ideal they set up for us of a life rich in appreciation of all that is fine.

By pointing the way, our faculty inspire us to enjoy the best in all the arts, to cultivate satisfying hobbies, to enter into civic enterprise, to feel a tenderness for good home life, and to appreciate the beauty of a radiant personality and a stalwart character. Together we strive daily for a realization of "the good life."

Mr. Charles A. Everest, busy principal of Union, has a systematic method of keeping the faculty informed of school activities and regulations. He dictates bulletins to Miss Helen Olsen, office clerk, who sees that they are mimeographed and distributed to the teachers. Miss Olsen does a great deal of the routine work in the office and answers countless questions asked by students and teachers.

As the adviser of the Student Council, Mr. Everest has helped that body to effect many improvements in its parliamentary procedure. Two of his brain children of 1937 are: a plan which has brought a decided improvement in the assemblies both in student conduct and in programs; and a plan which assigns each student to a definite place where he must be during the entire fifth hour.

Besides being principal of Union, Mr. Everest is a member of the governing board of the Kent County Humane Society and an ex-officio member of the Michigan Educational Association.

Administration

Miss Blanche Mann, assistant principal, is a sympathetic listener. She straightens out the troubles of over-burdened students and helps others to discover their mistakes and correct them.

Miss Mann is doing a constructive piece of work by supervising the N.Y.A. workers at Union. Members of the faculty notify Miss Mann about any work they would like done and she assigns N.Y.A. students to do it. The Service Squad, the traffic officers of the school, are also under her advisership.

Because she is the principal of Turner Elementary School, Miss Mann is here only half-days; but those half-days are crowded with the tasks of helping students as well as faculty members to solve distressing problems.

Our Ever Active Faculty

Two book reviews, "The Flowering of New England" by Brooks and "The Theatre of Life" by Howard, in the Grand Rapids Sunday Herald, were written by Miss Mabel Allen.

Miss Nelle Atwood is treasurer of the Grand Rapids branch of the American Association of University Women.

Back to nature Mr. Clayton Bazuin went to gather material for articles on "The Food of Trout" and "A Bird Census of Grand Rapids" for the daily Press. Mr. Bazuin, past president of the Grand Rapids Audubon Society, spends much of his spare time in collecting biological material for schools and colleges.

Miss Florence Best gave the Michigan School Masters Club at Ann Arbor pointers on junior high music in her speech on April 30.

The Union High band, under the baton of Mr. Theodore Fryfogle, was the only one in the city invited to play at the Shrine Circus, the Red Cross benefit football game, and the Lions Club Kettle Parade.

"The Vegetable Garden," a reproduction of a painting by the famous Dutch artist, Vincent Van Gogh, has been given to the school by Miss Charlotte Gierst.

A first-class rating for this year's Reflector and the coveted All-American rating for the 1936 Aurora were the two recent staff honors obtained under Miss Myrtle Heseltine's direction. During this year Miss Heseltine has led yearbook roundtables at both the national and state scholastic press conventions.

A bored teacher may turn to boards for relaxation. Miss Geraldine Masters is president of the Vandenberg Division of the Board of the Michigan Alumnae Association and scholarship chairman of the board of the Women's University Club.

To be a friend in need is the duty of Mr. Leonard Meyering, chairman of the Junior Red Cross of the high schools of Kent County.

Mrs. B. Bradford Murphy, teacher of junior high school music, is organist and choir director at the People's Church.

Associated with American "royalty" is Miss Elizabeth Perrin, who is a member of the Governor's safety committee.

The Michigan Poetry Society bulletin has recently published a paper by Miss Olga Pershbacher on the teaching of poetry to high school students.

Miss Clara Smallidge, president of our P.T.A., helped the organization to stage an unusual "open house" at which mothers took their children's places in classes.

Busy Mr. Orin D. Stiehl is general superintendent of the First Methodist Sunday School.

Because of Miss Grace Thomasma's work as adviser and director of the groups of Union students who wrote and presented a peace pageant, "The Pact of Paris;" a historical pageant, "George Washington;" and a Michigan centennial pageant, "Builders: Epic of the Lady of the Lakes," she presided at a roundtable on Vitalized Commencement during the M.E.A. Convention last October.

"Find a way or make one." To live up to its motto, the senior class of 1937 holds a session to determine the ways and means to do so. Gathered in a body, seniors find the school auditorium an open forum on the question of the day, be it a discussion on graduation costumes or on the disposal of an unaccounted-for fifty cents in the senior treasury.

Teamwork, a byword with the class, makes the seniors' route a pleasant one. However, when a stone wall is reached, Miss Thomasma and Mr.

SENIORS

Voss, class advisers, help their puzzled charges to surmount the barrier by suggesting a detour. Personal problems as well as class difficulties are brought to the advisers, who have guided many a nonchalant senior to his diploma.

Senior

September 14, 1936

After a summer of anticipation, last year's juniors rush back for their Senior Year—the one year when they are justified in "lording it over" underclassmen—when studies, unbeknown to teachers (?), take a back seat while the seniors take a grand swing at extra-curricular activities.

October 16, 17

The Senior Band displays its new uniforms for the first time as it parades proudly through town.

November 6

The Harvest Festival, a product of P. T. A. ingenuity, provides a night of entertainment in the monotony of school life. The pie-eating contest is the center of attraction for many noteworthy but unfed seniors!

November 20

"Boys and girls together." The scene—the senior roller-skating party. The boards of the Coliseum creak and groan as many a hapless senior finds parts of his anatomy colliding suddenly with unyielding surfaces.

November 25

Although our rivals won the annual Union-South grid classic, the Turkey Strut goes on per schedule. Even after the hard game the boys are still able to "swing it!"

December 1

Appointment of those important seniors, the top editors of the "Aurora," is announced.

December 19

Christmas vacation, that relief point sighted many weeks ago finally looms before Unionites, a reality. Retail selling classes offer their star salesmen to the dime stores. Slippery-tongued amateurs reap neat little sums to tuck in Christmas socks, while those who lack the "gift of gab" are forced to take what Santa gives 'em.

Chronicle

February 24

The Girls' U. Club stages an elaborate "Frollies." Aisles bursting with Unionites plus box office receipts give proof that the show scores a "hit."

March 12-18

"Doc" Ellingson's fighting Red Hawks again show their supremacy by trouncing all comers in city play to win the city championship. The Hawks go on to cop the regional cup.

March 19-20

"I'm headin' for the annual Round-up" sing the West Side boosters. All active clubs join hands in making this "nickel social" pay for the band's uniforms and other projects the erstwhile public forgot when they voted "yea" on the fifteen mill tax question.

April 9

Flash! All sabers bared! Flash!

Dancers foresee a rip-roaring time when they spot Frank Winegar's orchestra, fortified by sandbags and all set to shoot the works at the Sabre Swing sponsored by the Bar and Chevrons Club.

May 7

May 13, 14

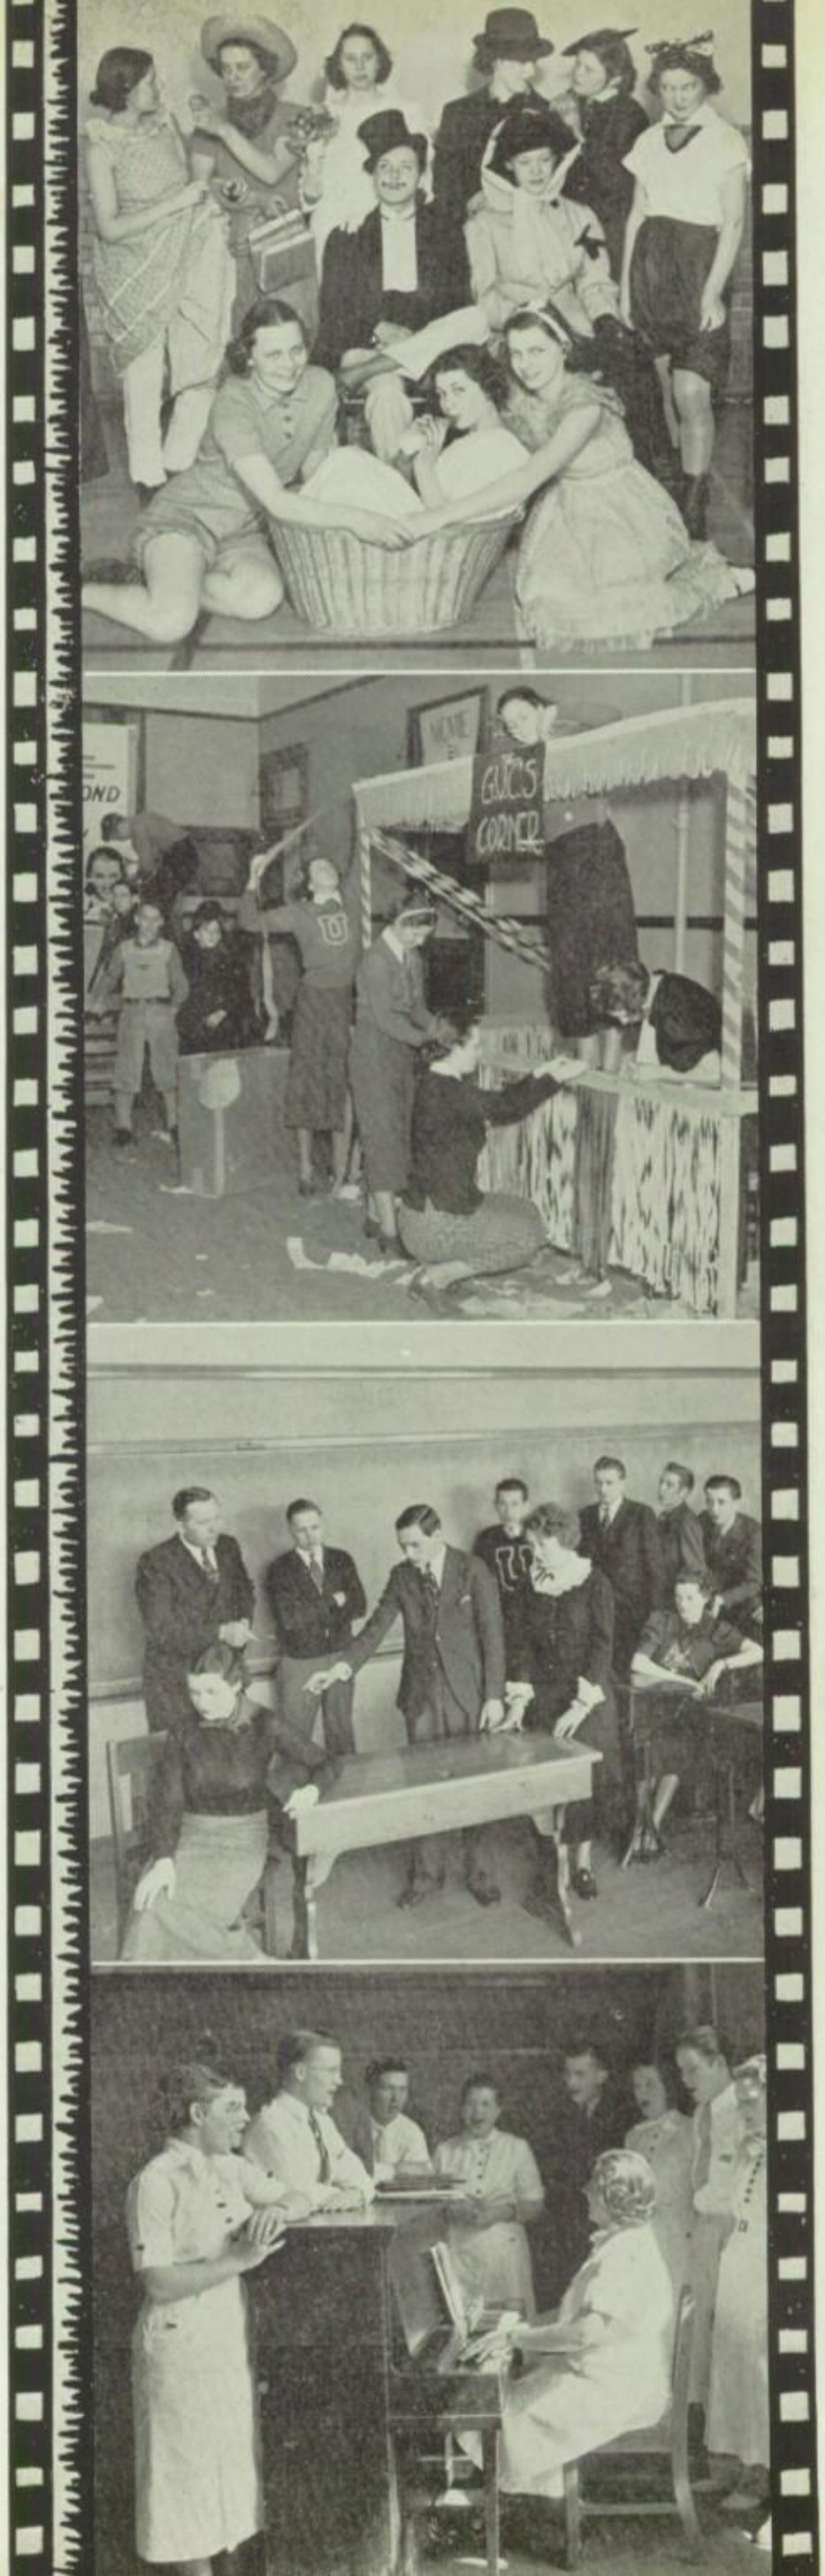
"Smilin' Through," the wistful story that has thrilled millions of Americans as a movie, is presented as the senior class play of 1937.

May 1 — June 11

"There's something in the air!" Yes, senior after senior is practicing his swan song for the night of June 11, when the swankiest of swan songs will issue forth in one grand golden symphony.

June 11, 1937

The end of the trail! As we accept our diplomas, the warm evening is cooled with the knowledge that a complicated world is before us. Wish us happy landings, Alma Mater!



Class Song

Music by Carolyn Vander Sys
Words by Tressa De Vries, Barbara Olson

Lyric:

Let's sing once more of Union,
Unfurl her banner bright,
That we may keep in memory
Those colors — red and white.

Where'er our paths may lead us
We'll keep this thought in mind:
"We'll find a way or make one"
To help and guide mankind.

Refrain:

Farewell, dear Alma Mater,
Farewell, dear Union High!
The memories we have of thee
Shall never, never die.
Farewell to those we leave behind,
Our teachers, classmates — all —
Our wishes for their happiness
Resound through every hall.

Class Will

■ WE, the senior class of Union High School, being of as sound mind and judgment as can be expected, knowing that our final day of existence is close at hand, do create and fix our signature upon this our final will and testament on the first day of June in the year of Our Lord nineteen-hundred and thirty-seven.

Our first and foremost request is in regard to our tearless funeral. We do hereby request that the Voice of Experience conduct the church services, that the faculty mourn, that the basketball men and Mr. Waters be pallbearers, that the mixed chorus sing, "I'm Heading for the Last Round-up," that Mr. Hornbeck's car be used as the hearse, and that flowers other than pansies be omitted.

ITEM: To Principal Everest, the request that habitual truants be compelled to wear "I skip school" signs.

ITEM: To the juniors, all our unpaid bills; the vast amount of knowledge that we have left behind; the well-carved seats in the senior session rooms.

ITEM: To the faculty, the assurance that no class can ever be as clever as that of '37 and the hope that the teachers can retain their sense of humor after we're gone.

ITEM: To the undergraduates, the hope that each and every future grad will receive a pension as well as a diploma for intensive labor exerted during the preceding thirteen years, kindergarten included; the idea that they might go on a sit-down strike if their mental capacity cannot undergo the strain; the privilege of using Union's time-worn pencil sharpeners.

ITEM: To the future basketball men, the expectation that they will uphold the example set by the team of 1937.

ITEM: To the future football men, the task of scoring an annual victory over South.

ITEM: To all future stage managers, the hole in the auditorium curtain.

of 1937

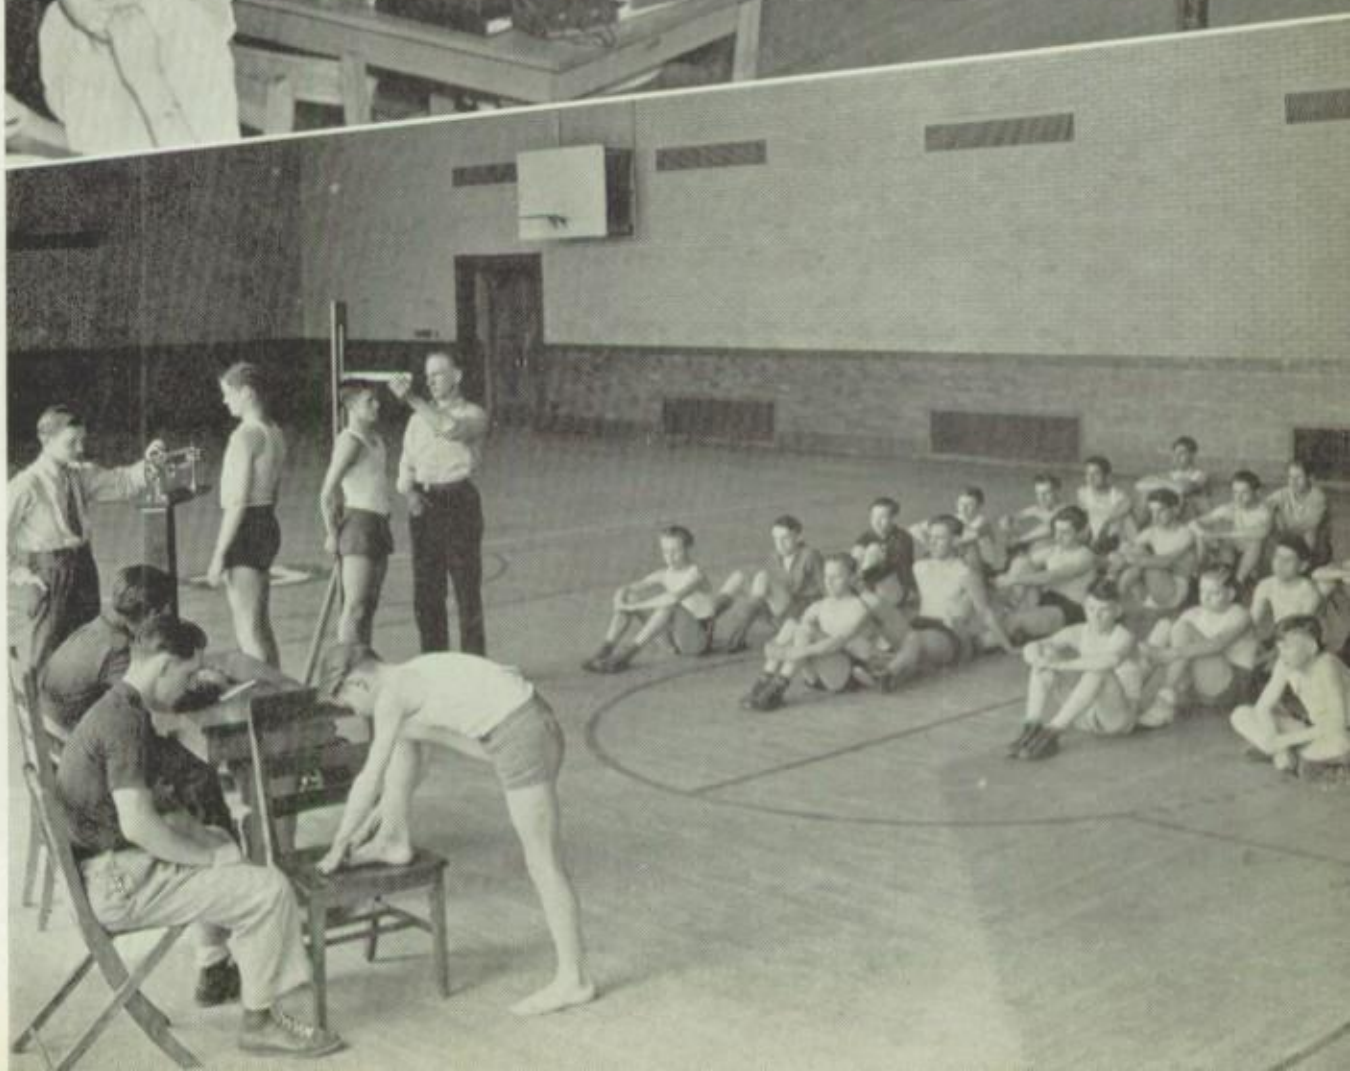
HEALTH



Health

■ If you should meet Average Boy and Average Girl who attend Union High School, you would see a glowing picture, the result of a modern school's effort to teach its boys and girls the right habits of health.

Average Boy maintains his physical fitness through intramural and city-wide competitive sports, while Average Girl has developed health through participation in girls' after-school activities.

Not only do these young moderns brush their teeth and wash behind their ears; but they also drink their milk and eat their spinach because through the knowledge of vitamins and calories gained in their hygiene, physiology, and foods classes, they realize that from the carefully-planned menus of Union's cafeteria they are sure to get a properly balanced diet.

If Average Boy had poor eyesight, he would have the privilege of being aided by special teachers and classes.

Both Average Boy and Average Girl are learning how to drive dad's car according to the rules of safe and sane driving. This instruction they get in Union's newly-organized safety class.

On June 11 Average Boy and Average Girl will leave Union High School equipped with first-rate health, a prime necessity if they are to find the wealth and happiness essential for "the good life."

Keeping Fit

Every student begins his high school health career with a physical examination, which includes being weighed, measured, and examined for athlete's foot.

To the student whose health survey reveals a physical defect, Miss Mildred Beckwith, the school nurse, gives aid and advice. If the teeth need attention, Dr. Harry Dengler, the school dentist, administers the necessary treatment.

When all defects are corrected or are in process of correction, the student may take part in any major sport or in gym activities where healthful exercise builds up strong, sturdy bodies and encourages a spirit of good sportsmanship.

Members of the newly-organized safety class acquire valuable information about all the different phases of safety from class discussions and lectures by outstanding authorities in that field.

When camped out in the woods away from the wiles of women, sportsmen must eat; and under such circumstances, the boys of Miss Holland's foods class find themselves satisfactory chefs.

Aside from practicing the arts of cooking and serving, girls' foods classes study food values and their bearing on good health.

Students with sight defects have special teachers to supervise and assist with their study, while poor eyes are given both preventive and corrective treatment.

Periodically boys and girls of Union High School are given tuberculosis tests by doctors and nurses provided by the Grand Rapids Anti-Tuberculosis Association. If a positive reaction follows the test, the type of treatment necessary to restore normal health is arranged by the Association.

In the girls' and boys' physiology classes and in the hygiene and sanitation class, the same point — healthful living — is stressed. Besides learning the rules of good health, students in these classes acquire through class discussions and laboratory experiments a knowledge of the causes, preventions, and cures of diseases.

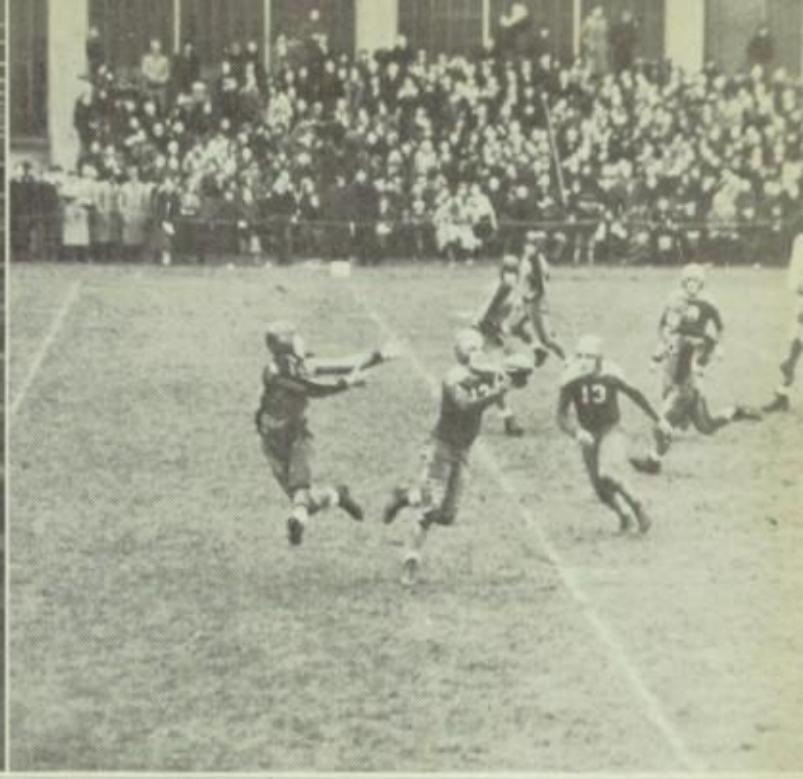
Football

Union began the season by trouncing Ionia 33-0. Then they swamped Tech 26-0; in their only night game they defeated Central 6-0. They were held to a scoreless tie by Ottawa but made a strong comeback when they defeated Catholic Central 15-0 at Catholic's home-coming. When Union journeyed to Muskegon, they were badly beaten 33-0. In the last home game, Creston held the team to a scoreless tie. Union lost their first city game on Thanksgiving Day when South defeated them 20-0.



Football

All-city honors for 1936 were awarded to Bialas and Michalak.

Amon, Bialas, Borkowski, Jackin, Jennings, Klein, Kozlowski, Kurtyka, Captain Mercer, Newman, and Richards finish this year. Seven of them are regulars; but, despite this fact, it can be expected that as usual Coach John Hess will produce a team of championship contenders. John Michalak has been elected captain for the 1937 season.

Basketball

Sitting: Princekavich, Morris, Newman, Kozlowski, Olszewski
Standing: Coach Ellingson, Goolian, Cutler, Zimnowski, Ellingson, Coach Waters

With three regulars returning at the beginning of the season, "Doc" Ellingson has produced another city championship team, his third in four years.

The team went through the entire season winning every city game and the city regional titles. Only twice were the boys beaten until Muskegon defeated them in the State Tournament. The entire team made the all-city team, Jack Newman, captain, making the all-state team.

All the regulars but Stanley Olszewski are graduating in June.

Although the second team does not rate as high as the varsity team in the public eye, it plays an important role in the school, for members of this team will make up the varsity team in following years.

Knowing that they have a chance to make the first team later on, the boys of the second team are encouraged to spend many hours in practice and training.

Because they lost only two games, the seconds won the city-championship in their class, thanks to the able tutelage of Coach Russell Waters.

These boys are champions of the Major League basket-ball tournament, which is a part of the intramural program planned by the athletic department. To exercise the body and to have a good time are the aims of the boys participating in the tournament.

To become a Union basketball star some day is the ambition of these young fellows who are the champions of the Midget Basketball League. Do you see an Amon or a Newman in the crowd?

At the left you see winners of the Minor League in the basketball tournament, which is held in the morning before school during the winter months. The leagues are very popular and many students participate during the season.

One of the many intramural contests that are offered for the boys of the junior and senior high school is the "21" game of which Helhorst, Howland, and Miles are champions.

Sociability and the proper health habits are the objectives of broncho-ball, one of the numerous games played by the junior high school boys.

An opportunity is offered to every boy in the gymnasium classes to acquaint himself with the fundamental skills of football. The technique of this great American game is illustrated through class instruction.

A part of the regular class training of every member of a boys' physical education class is instruction in the proper way to execute track and field skills. A testing program is used in all major sport activities.

Track

The ancient Greeks were the first to do it, but Union still carries on with good Greek spirit.

The boys who participate in track go out because of their love for sports, inasmuch as there is in this activity very little of the glory attendant upon other major sports.

The squad of 1937 was one of the largest in the school's history; it was also one of the strongest in the city. The boys began the season by trouncing Allegan; next they defeated Creston by a decisive margin. They continued to hold their place in the ranks of the undefeated by going out and drubbing a strong Ottawa team. The Union squad suffered its first loss of the year when it was defeated by Catholic Central.

Union's hopes for honors in the city meet dwindled when John Michalak, our star in the high and low hurdles and broad jump, was unable to participate in the events because of a sprained ankle; and the final tally dropped Union to fifth place.

Anthony Cohan, practically a newcomer, set a new high jump record for the school in one of the earlier meets.

Speedball is as thrilling to the lassies as football is to the lads! The camera caught a tense moment in this game when two girls are trying for a tie ball.

Yes, girls, as well as boys, learn how to play basketball. In this shot, two girls are climbing higher after the referee has called a tie ball.

Behold the eager anticipation as the athletic maidens in the picture prepare for a good game of ping-pong, a favorite in the girl's gym.

Playing shuffleboard in the gym is not so much fun as playing it on a ship's deck; but it does provide the girls with pleasant relaxation for both mind and body.

Competition between girls' session rooms has been introduced this year in the form of a cage-ball tournament, the purpose of which is to promote a sportsmanly feeling among the girls of the school.

Skills are important because of the part they play in making the individual a successful participant in the various sports. In the picture the players are practicing skills for speedball.

To add a modern touch, the girls' gym class sings while dancing to such old familiar rounds as "Are You Sleeping?"

These pretty maids are not chorus girls from the Ziegfeld Follies, but just a group of Union's Eleanor Powells practicing the salute which concludes their Military Tap dance in the girls' meet.

WEALTH

Wealth

■ Flash! Student discovers heretofore hidden wealth in little red schoolhouse!

To the astounded public, we explain that we do not mean actual wealth in dollars and cents. But don't be disappointed, there is a valuable treasure in school waiting for anyone who comes to seek it. This treasure is in two forms comes the report, the wealth of knowledge to be found in books and the wealth of skill to be found in a trained hand. The former enables us to speak a foreign language with ease, to know all the highlights of American literature, to construct a geometric figure correctly, to understand the basic principles of chemistry, to know what is going on behind the scenes of the nation's capital, and to perform other feats equally amazing.

Who can estimate the wealth that lies in the ability to take a letter in shorthand, read it back, and then type it accurately; to make our own clothes; to take a car apart and put it together again; to build something out of wood; to make a doorbell; to decorate that livable little room?

Best of all, school offers us not only the treasures of knowledge and skill but also gives us the wealth that lies in the experience of carrying on the affairs of our little world now, just as we shall carry on the affairs of the big world later on. Students preside over large and important organizations such as the Student Council, often organize classes, make others want to work for a common cause, and uphold the law, all valuable practice in participation.

This, my friends, is the wealth that is hidden in the little red schoolhouse!

HAPPINESS

Happiness

■ There's a play at two-thiry this afternoon — a dance Friday evening at eight — a cream puff sale after-school. Oh, yes, we students at Union have our share of fun and social activities and abundant opportunity to revel in the atmosphere of good fellowship. It's sheer fun to participate in the healthful sports at school, to be a part of the gang when there's a party in the air, or to hike up to the lunchroom to eat.

Another customer stepping up to buy a hot-dog or cream-puff gives us an inner-glow of satisfaction, for every nickel earned at our after-school sales means another bit added to the fund of some organization. Yes, it's work, but it's fun to know we're really helping some worthy cause.

Happiness? There's none surpasses the joy of achievement. Tucked away with our most prized possessions will always remain that letter we received in athletics, or a gold pin for extra-curricular activities, or, if we were lucky enough, a Christine M. Keck award for creative ability.

Our school has given us an education, but it has also given us an opportunity to experience true happiness.

The members of the G.U.C. are girls who have won letters or numerals. Besides promoting athletic activities among girls, the club sponsors several of the most popular parties of the year.

Corresponding to the G.U.C. is the boys' club, the Varsity. In the picture, the president is presenting Mr. Ellingson, the basketball coach, with the trophy the team received for winning the district championship.

The purpose of the Girl Reserves is serious, but the club finds time to sponsor many teas and other social activities.

Although the Audubon Club studies the feeding habits of our feathered friends, from the picture we guess that they are not concerned solely with food for birds.

Perhaps these girls have an eye to the future! Anyway as members of the Home Economics Club they learn the domestic and social skills needed to make a pleasant home.

The cheer leaders and song leaders have established themselves as a necessary part of school life through their ability to work up spirit and pep among students and teachers.

When Herbert Leader, Florence Vidro (now Mrs. Leader), Leonene Dahlstrom, Jennie Pratt, Clara Hankinson, and Ruth Kinney left Union with the class of 1912, little did they know that twenty-five years later their children would be having a jolly time together also at Union!

The elevator saves the fairer sex of Union many a weary step during the year. It is usually operated by Mr. Gerbers, our trusty janitor, who always has a smile and a cheery word for his passengers.

The Union High Safety Club, an enthusiastic group of students interested in the problems of safety, has been functioning efficiently for nine years under the leadership of Miss Perrin.

Mighty was the battle that raged around Union as each grade worked to have its candidate win first place in the popularity contest, one of the feature attractions of our money-making Round-up.

Many a healthy after-school appetite has been appeased by the tummy-tempters usually on sale when school closes. They not only satisfy the students but swell the funds for some organization.

The R.O.T.C. sponsors take part in the drilling and maneuvers along with the cadets. Strange as it may seem, they are said to increase the interest of the cadets in the R.O.T.C.

During the past year the Humane Club has been making a scrap book for Mrs. Kindel, head of the Humane Society of Michigan.

An American school goes to Holland? True enough, for the Union Junior Red Cross is preparing to send to their Dutch cousins a port-folio portraying practically every phase of school life.

"The purpose of the Hi-Y is to create and maintain throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character."

Through practicing on one another, the girls in the personal regimen class get experience in such feminine arts as beauty culture, etiquette, and home making.

Students who are artistically inclined find it fun to express their originality by creating posters and pictures. They forward projects of other organizations by assisting with artistic advertising.

Every Thursday the printing shop turns out our school paper. Through this experience students learn the fundamentals of operating a printing plant.

Through oral book reports all the class members receive the benefit of a classmate's enjoyment. The object of contemporary literature is to acquaint the students with modern authors and their works.

The Union High Community Council, which is composed of teachers, parents, and business men of the West Side, say with pride, "We are the ones who re-dressed Union's Band."

Through the efforts of the Union High Community Council, our band now has new suits of red, white, and black. With the only girl drum major in the city, the boys make an attractive appearance.

The girls' glee club, led by Miss Best, contributes much to assemblies and concerts. Their white uniforms trimmed with red buttons show that they are loyal supporters of Union's colors.

The peppy, rollicking songs the boys' glee club sings make them popular at assemblies and other gatherings.

The mixed chorus, in which boys' and girls' voices are blended, has participated in concerts at school and has given pleasure to the West Side Literary Club by appearing on its programs.

The staff takes great pride in bringing to the students and faculty of Union a well-written publication, the Reflector, which gives information and news of the school.

Proud of the chic they have attained in their new spring dresses, the girls in Clothing III and IV class are shown modeling the outfits which they have made under the capable direction of Miss Rowson.

Members of the National Honor Society are chosen for high scholarship, leadership, service, and character. One of their projects this year has been the collecting of college catalogs to pass on to their successors.

The R.O.T.C. boys on the Rifle Team are city champions in marksmanship. They have won over South, Central, and Comstock Rifle Clubs. Union placed three men on the Hearst Trophy Team, which is composed of five of the best shots in the city.

Awards

Since 1921, as a memorial to Guerney O. Dillingham, cups have been awarded to the senior boy and girl who rank especially high in leadership and scholarship. The 1937 winners were Charles Anderson and Helen Jasaitis.

Each year a number of seniors are presented with gold keys—symbols of the students' participation in school affairs. Charles Anderson, Alice Goudzwaard, Jo Ann Porcupile, Bettyann Mains, Viola Juntunen, Julian Rymarowicz, Lucy Kortz, Dorothy Ruth Smith, Irene Szekely, Mary Kowalski, Lenore Johnson, Helen Jasaitis received keys at the annual Awards Assembly.

Four students have received special awards. The class of 1940 gave two of its members, Alice Larrabee and William Herrman, a prize of five dollars for high scholarship. To Lois Early, a senior, went the home economics award of ten dollars given by Mrs. Elizabeth Slaght. Wahneta Kuzinski, a junior, was awarded a gold pin for the best specimen of shorthand penmanship.
